Equity Administration Solutions, Inc. Launches Education Services

Equity compensation software leader announces significant investments in customer success.

Pleasanton, CA – January 28, 2014 - Equity Administration Solutions, Inc. (EASi), the largest independent equity compensation software-as-a-service company, today announced a significant customer success investment. Clients who use the EASi software to streamline and simplify how they track, manage and report on stock compensation will now also have access to more robust education offerings.

EASi is launching an Education Services line to better serve its rapidly expanding customer base. This new service line offers equity compensation courses through a variety of channels, catering to clients' diverse learning needs. The cornerstone of EASi's Education Services is the EASi Learning Center, a 24/7 online learning management system that delivers a library of courses personalized to the learner's delivery preference. Courses are categorized into learning tracks, which are groups of courses for a particular learner, like a beginner, intermediate, advanced user, or administrator or accounting professional. Education Services also offers regional training events and customized, one-on-one and small group training courses delivered online or live at a client's site. The training offerings cover both software-specific instruction as well as the latest industry and technical content.

"Our customers' success hinges on their knowledge of equity compensation and an understanding of how to get the most from EASi's equity compensation management platform. The new educational offerings address these objectives and have been created with busy professionals in mind," said Jorge Martin, senior vice president of services and support for EASi. "These training programs also extend to our industry partners, who are critical players in the success of EASi customers."
